Dear Parents,

I hope that you and your family are keeping safe and healthy.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you, our pupils, and teachers for the successful transition to remote learning in all our schools. I am pleased to say that the feedback received from parents and pupils has been very positive, and our schools have refined and adapted their teaching provision accordingly.

As part of our Governance and quality procedures, we also run lesson observations on our schools' remote learning delivery. Mr David Tidmarsh, Chair of the ILG Advisory Board, has been sitting in on our schools' remote learning lessons reviewing the delivery and quality of their provision. Results from the observations have been positive with the behaviour for learning a strong feature of the lessons. The amount of preparation carried out by the staff has been significant, which has made the sessions engaging and positive. In all lessons observed the children fully understood the protocols whilst remaining enthusiastic, contributing to the discussion, and making good progress.

We are hopeful that our schools will be able to reopen fully on 8 March as indicated by the Government, however this has not yet been confirmed. Therefore, at this time, it is not possible for us to quantify the exact cost savings which will be passed back to parents. Once we can accurately assess the level of savings, we will calculate the rebate which will be credited against the next term's fees.

All our schools remain open to key worker and vulnerable children who are being supervised on site, and teaching staff remain engaged in providing a high quality remote service. However, as outlined in my letter of 6 January we are making savings wherever possible.

I continue to be grateful for your support of our schools and nurseries and wish you all the very best.

Kind Regards,

Amit Mehta

CEO and Founder of ILG
